

Media Release

Judd Appointed Buloke Chief Executive Officer

11 April 2018

Buloke Shire Council has appointed Anthony Judd as its new Chief Executive Officer (CEO) commencing 23 April 2018.

Anthony Judd lives and works in Buloke Shire. Born and raised in Charlton, Anthony is now raising his own family in his home town. He holds a Master of Business Administration (Deakin University) and a Bachelor of Management/Bachelor of Applied Science degree (Federation University).

Anthony has been at Buloke Shire Council since 2006. He spent four years as Recreation Officer then three years as Manager Assets and Infrastructure. He has held his current position, Director Works and Technical Services since 2013. An outstanding leader in his community, Anthony is also a graduate of the Loddon Murray Community Leadership Program.

Mayor Cr David Pollard was excited by the appointment of Anthony to the position which again drew high quality candidates.

“Anthony has been at the forefront of everything that is happening in Buloke right now. His work has brought significant opportunities and funding to complete many projects across the Shire and he has an intrinsic understanding of the importance of the next exciting period of development for Buloke. Anthony is a shining light in Buloke and will continue to do amazing things. His appointment to the position of CEO also underlines the organisation’s ability to foster and develop exceptional young professionals, of which we have many”, said Cr Pollard.

Anthony is currently Acting CEO until 23 April 2018 when he will officially become Buloke Shire Council CEO. Council will soon begin the recruiting process to fill the void left in the Works and Technical Services Directorship.

End release

For further information contact Team Leader Communications, Travis Fitzgibbon on 03 5478 0181 or tfitzgibbon@buloke.vic.gov.au